LOOK INTO HIS DATING FILES

DAVID CASSIDY is no different from most other young men his age. He loves to meet girls and date them. But he has one problem a lot of other guys don't have—with his busy schedule, he sometimes doesn't have very much time for dating. The name of the game is making the most of what he has. So when he does manage to get a free day or evening to spend with a girl he's particularly interested in, you can bet he shows his dates the best time possible.

Let's take a peek at David's private dating files to find out just how much fun some of those very special dates have been...

SOMETHING DIFFERENT

David first met the girl we'll call Cindy when she was visiting a neighbor for the summer. It was Cindy's first trip to California and David thought it might be nice to show her some of the behind-the-scenes activity of TV making and some of the other sights in Los Angeles. She thought that was a super idea, too.

So David picked Cindy up very early on the morning of their date and drove right out to the Columbia Ranch where "The Partridge Family" is filmed. When they arrived he introduced her to the crew and the other cast members and showed her to his own private director's chair with his name printed on it.

It was an exciting morning for Cindy since she'd never seen a TV show being filmed before. David was especially pleased to have someone special watching him work, too. Before they knew it, it was time for lunch. Instead of sitting with the rest of the cast in the busy cafeteria as he often does, David chose an out-of-the-way table where he and Cindy could talk. And they had a really nice chat—but soon it was back to work.

David was really lucky that on this particular day he was finished filming early. This gave him time to show Cindy around the other TV sets on the Ranch before they took off for a favorite restaurant to have dinner. After dinner they walked around bustling West Los Angeles and talked for a very long time.

Soon it was time to go home—David had to get up early the next day for work. He'd had a wonderful time and was very happy to hear Cindy say she enjoyed herself very much, too. Before he said good night, he made a date to see her again—very soon.
