

FAMILY - "WHY WE HURT EACH OTHER!"

SUSAN hurts The Partridge when she doesn't feel she has enough talent. Everyone on the set thinks Susan's a fine actress and they really wish she would trust their judgement when her confidence slips a little.

DANNY hurts the others when he fools around between scenes instead of getting to his schoolwork. They all know how much he hates studying, but they want him to get good marks in school just the same.

SUZANNE hurts the rest of The Partridges when she gets involved in a rough game of football during her lunch break. Her TV family knows how much she loves being a "tomboy," but they still worry about her a great deal.

SHIRLEY hurts her Partridge kids when she refuses to take sides if there's a difference of opinion. At first they thought she just wasn't interested, but now they realize that she remains neutral because she doesn't want to hurt them more by siding with one person over another.

You're probably asking "What happened to Jeremy Gelbwaks?" Well, sad as it may be, Jeremy won't be back with The Partridges when they return with their new shows this season. The Gelbwaks family is moving out of California, so Jeremy will be giving up his acting career—for awhile, anyway. But don't worry, there's going to be a brand-new "Chris" in his place. Eleven-year-old Brian Forster has joined the cast of "The Partridge Family" and we'll be letting you know lots more about him in future issues.

DAVID hurts the others when he doesn't share songs he's working on with them. Though they understand that some of his work might be in very rough stages, they'd still like to see and hear what he's doing so they can give him extra encouragement.

SUSAN hurts the rest of The Partridges when she gets upset over rumors spread around about her and David. Everyone on the set knows that she and David are just very good friends and
(please turn to page 50)

