the hills for about an hour and a half before they reached the perfect picnic spot where outdoor cooking was allowed.

After they hiked around a bit and enjoyed the scenery for awhile, David got to work building a fire while Jane began to prepare the hot dogs and hamburgers. Though David doesn't feel he's a very good cook, he still loves to cook outdoors. The lunch turned out really good, too, and the company and country air made it seem even better.

When they finished lunch, David and Jane hiked over to a nearby lake for swimming and later rented horses at a riding stable not far from the lake. Swimming and riding are two of David's favorite sports and he found out they're Jane's favorites, too.

As the sun went down, they headed home, exhausted but very happy. And David knew that he'd be seeing a lot more of Jane in the future.

BARRY'S DAYS & NIGHTS

has time for no matter how busy he is walking his German Shepherd Tassie. "When you have an animal I believe it's really important to spend enough time with it," he says. "That's why I felt I had to give up my horse last year. Working on a series just doesn't give me enough time to go riding every day."

Barry still tries to go riding whenever he can in the Santa Monica-Malibu mountains, though. And he also enjoys tennis and skiing. Although he rarely gets a chance to go on a long vacation, Barry occasionally spends a weekend or a few days at one of the nearby ski resorts.

MAKING MUSIC

Although Barry's main goal right now is to be the best actor he can, music is also a very important part of his life. Every day he practices piano and guitar, and recently he's been working at singing and song writing. In fact, you'll soon be able to hear Barry on his first album!

AND THOSE NIGHTS

Working nights for Barry are usually at-home nights. After dinner, there's homework to be done and a script to be studied. Then sometimes, if he's not too tired, Barry will read or watch television.

But on weekend nights or during vacation Barry will often go out with his family, friends, or a special girl. Now that Barry's got his driver's license, dating's a lot easier since he doesn't have to go to a movie or restaurant close to home. But some of his favorite date-time places are still in Santa Monica.

He might, for instance, go out to dinner at the Fox or Bob Burns in Santa
