PARTRIDGE FAN CLUB COLUMN

Danny was in the railroad car, after all. I asked him about the new script, and he said:

"It's pretty good, but there are some words that I can't pronounce." It's funny, but you, the viewers, don't see the problems the Partridge kids have memorizing their lines sometimes. You see "Danny Partridge" as the money-minded little boy who can solve any problem. Did it ever occur to you that Danny has trouble figuring out "Danny Partridge?"

We've been working on some ideas for the Partridge Fan Club News. Don't forget to get the Tiger Beat and FaVE issues this summer and get all the details of future plans for YOU!

PARTRIDGE MAIL BOX

Dear Cecelia,

In one of your articles, you told FaVE and Tiger Beat readers about the Partridge teacher, (You know who I mean . . . The lady who teaches Danny, Brian and Suzanne). Could you tell us something about her, 'cos my friend and I would like to be a studio teacher someday.

Thank you,
Marie Goldman

Dear Marie,

Juel Anderson is the Partridge teacher. Juel not only taught Danny, Brian and Suzanne, she taught Susan Dey during the filming of the pilot last year.

Mrs. Anderson is also the social worker on the set and it's her responsibility to make sure the Partridge kids are not overworked, get an hour and half for lunch, etc.

"Good luck with your future plans, Marie. A social worker is a rewarding and worthwhile job," says Juel.
