Just because they're the smallest, Jeremy and Susan are usually the last in line for anything. There should be a law: little guys up front.

While watching The Partridge Family do their thing every week on our TV screen, we can't help feeling a little bit nicer because of the two adorable small fry additions to the show.

Oh, you know who we mean—Suzanne Crough and Jeremy Gelbwaks.

Little Suzanne plays Tracy Partridge, the littlest member of the singing family—and perhaps the cutest with her blonde curls.

Jeremy plays Chris, the youngest of the three boys and perhaps the most quiet and well-mannered of the whole family.

Do you think this could be due to his age? Who knows! But whatever the cause, we know without Jeremy and Suzanne, the show just wouldn't be the same, wending its merry way into our livingrooms each Friday night over Channel Seven.

Suzanne Crough, pronounced the same way as "crow" is the youngest member of the Partridge family.

But Suzanne is used to that! She is also the youngest of Joseph and Anne Crough's eight children. In today's world, that's a lot of kids to be responsible for and to share your time and love with—but Suzanne hasn't lacked for anything in that way. Her parents, and brothers and sisters, make up a very loving and close family—even before Suzanne became a star in her own right, she was always showered with attention and love.

But she was never spoiled and even today, as a TV star, remains as sweet and natural as any other seven-year-old, and as happy and well adjusted as her seven brothers and sisters.

Suzanne and the other Croughs live in Anaheim, California, a short distance from the studio. Her father owns and operates a scooter shop in downtown Anaheim.
