

Bet you didn't know that David Cassidy was a basketball star! Well, he isn't really—at least "Keith Partridge" isn't. Keith is really about a third string player who never does much except sit on the bench, but in a "Partridge Family" episode you'll see this spring, Keith suddenly becomes a star!

It all begins when a fortune teller predicts that Keith will make a very important basket in an upcoming school game. When that game comes around, David is sent in to play because, for one reason or another, all of his school's best players are either injured or absent! And, just as the fortune teller predicted, Keith makes the tie-breaking basket in the last few seconds of play!

David really enjoyed doing this segment—even though the cast and crew kept teasing him about his basketball uniform!

Until the memorable game you'll see on "The Partridge Family" this spring, Keith Partridge spent most of his time sitting on his team's bench, instead of playing!

DAVID CASSIDY:

Think how hard you'd root at every game if David Cassidy was on your school team!

Photos by R.W. Young