ANSWERS

YOU!

Wow! Since we asked you to send in questions for David to answer, they've been pouring in day and night! You should see the look our postman gives us as he staggers in, bent double underneath about nine sacks of postcards!

Naturally, we can't ask David to answer all of them this time around, but we'll get to them all sooner or later! If you don't see yours this time — keep watching, okay?

Now, here's David!

Hi! I've never seen so many questions in my life! It's good to know that you're not so bored of me that you can't think of anything to ask, but I'm about to get permanent writer's cramp! Okay, here goes:

DO YOU LOVE SINGING AS MUCH AS I LOVE TO HEAR YOU SING? (A ONE-WORD ANSWER WILL DO!)

Theresa Strickland

Scarborough, Ont., Canada

One word? How about "yes!"

WOULD YOU EVER ASK A GIRL THAT YOU JUST MET FOR THE FIRST TIME OUT ON A DATE?

From Someone,
Canastota, N.Y.

Sure! I work so much that there's really no other way I could get to know her—I don't have the time! If I see a girl who gives me a really great feeling, and if I think she might say "yes," I'll ask her out right then and there!

CAN YOU EVER REALLY GO TO THE STORE OR ANYWHERE WITHOUT PEOPLE RUNNING AFTER YOU?

Carolyn Rossi
Blackwood, N.J.

It sort of depends. There are some places—like the beach—where I can walk all day. You see, I don't mind if people come up and talk to me—in fact, I love it! What frightens me is when there are suddenly a couple of hundred of them, because you never know what might happen. But no, I don't usually go to the store myself because people are always checking out my basket to see what I've bought! It's like having someone read over your shoulder!

WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT THE U.S. SENDING MEN TO THE MOON ALL THE TIME?

Linda Pearson
St. Cloud, Minnesota

I think it's really exciting! When those first guys walked on the moon, I was glued to my TV set the whole time! I do think there are a lot of things on earth that need taking care of first, though, like making sure everybody has something to eat, and that it doesn't matter what color you are! I think they could use some of the space money for that, and also some of the money that goes into building new weapons!

WOULD YOU EVER MARRY A GIRL WHO WAS JUST A PLAIN SECRETARY OR SOMETHING?

Laura Hobbes
Marvene, Ohio

Well, I'm not looking for a movie star! When I get married, the girl will have to be someone with her feet on the ground, just to put up with me! I think a secretary (or something) would be great! It just depends on the girl, right?
