

Well, this month was extra fun for me and I've been dying to tell you all about it. For four beautiful days I was in Salt Lake City with the Osmonds and it was really the most thrilling "business trip" I've ever been on! Climbing off the plane in 25 degree weather, just following a snow storm the night before I arrived, the whole state of Utah was covered with pure white snow and (native Californian that I am) I was astounded!

The minute I met the OSMONDS, they couldn't stop talking about the week they had taken off to go home to their ranch. All DONNY and JAY could talk about was their new snowmobiles. In fact, DONNY, JAY and MERRILL were all so sore they could hardly walk! They'd been playing so hard on the snowmobiles (or skidoos, as they call them) that every muscle ached!

Attending TOMMY and LYN'S wedding reception my first night in town started my trip off right. LYN looked so beautiful and TOMMY just glowed with happiness! I've never seen so many people in one place (except an OSMOND concert maybe) and it was wonderful to think that TOMMY and LYN have so many friends!

One really fun part of the evening was when JAY recruited me to help fix up TOMMY and LYN'S "getaway" car. DONNY, JAY and I sneaked down to the underground garage and with the help of a few of their friends, we attached balloons, covered the car with lipstick messages and shaving cream and then DONNY filled the whole car with letters from fans (all of which had been answered first!). JAY filled the hubcaps with rocks and someone else tied cans to the back bumper. In the end it was quite a sight!

TV either as a summer replacement starting in June or as a new show next fall. Also, next fall he'll have his own cartoon series on Saturday morning TV. The name hasn't been chosen as yet, but the story ideas are just darling!

What the series will mainly be about is BOBBY and his two dogs WALLY and GOOFY. It will be the story of BOBBY'S travels on the concert trail going from city to city by van with his two zany pups. Of course, there will be lots of music and it should be a pretty fun show all around.

The next morning after breakfast, the OSMONDS made a trip to the local radio station to record some interviews. On the way, DONNY and JAY couldn't resist getting into snowball fights! We really had a ball and I was busy taking pictures which you'll see in next month's TiGER BEAT! The next two days I spent in the OSMONDS' hometown just outside of Ogden, Utah. It's a sleepy little snow-covered valley and I can't remember ever seeing such a beautiful sight as you drive through the mountain pass and come out and get that first spectacular view of the valley! All in all, it was four of the most wonderful days I've ever spent with the groovy OSMONDS!

Just two days before we moved to our new offices, BOBBY SHERMAN came to visit and he had so much news to tell me, I'm going to have to tell you part of it next month. One of the really exciting things is that he may have his own variety/musical series on

By the way, although WALLY and GOOFY are currently staying at SONNY'S (Sonny is BOBBY'S road manager and good friend) ranch in the Valley, it's only a temporary home until BOBBY can get the necessary fences built in his back yard. Also, BOBBY transferred his whole recording studio from his parents' home to the garage of his new home, so until that work is completed he wanted his two nutty dogs out of the workmen's way!

SAM HYMAN dropped by the office just the other day and said he'd received two postcards from DAVID from Rome and that he was raving about all the sights. Then just after receiving the postcards, DAVID called and told him some bad news. His van had been broken into outside Rome and all his camera equipment, his International driver's license and his passport had been stolen along with 950 dollars in
