

Go!..Go! Backstage With David!

The final chapter of the David Cassidy Lovers' Guide was scheduled for this issue, but this super-intimate peek into David's backstage life became available just as we were going to press. So, David's Lovers' Guide will conclude next month.

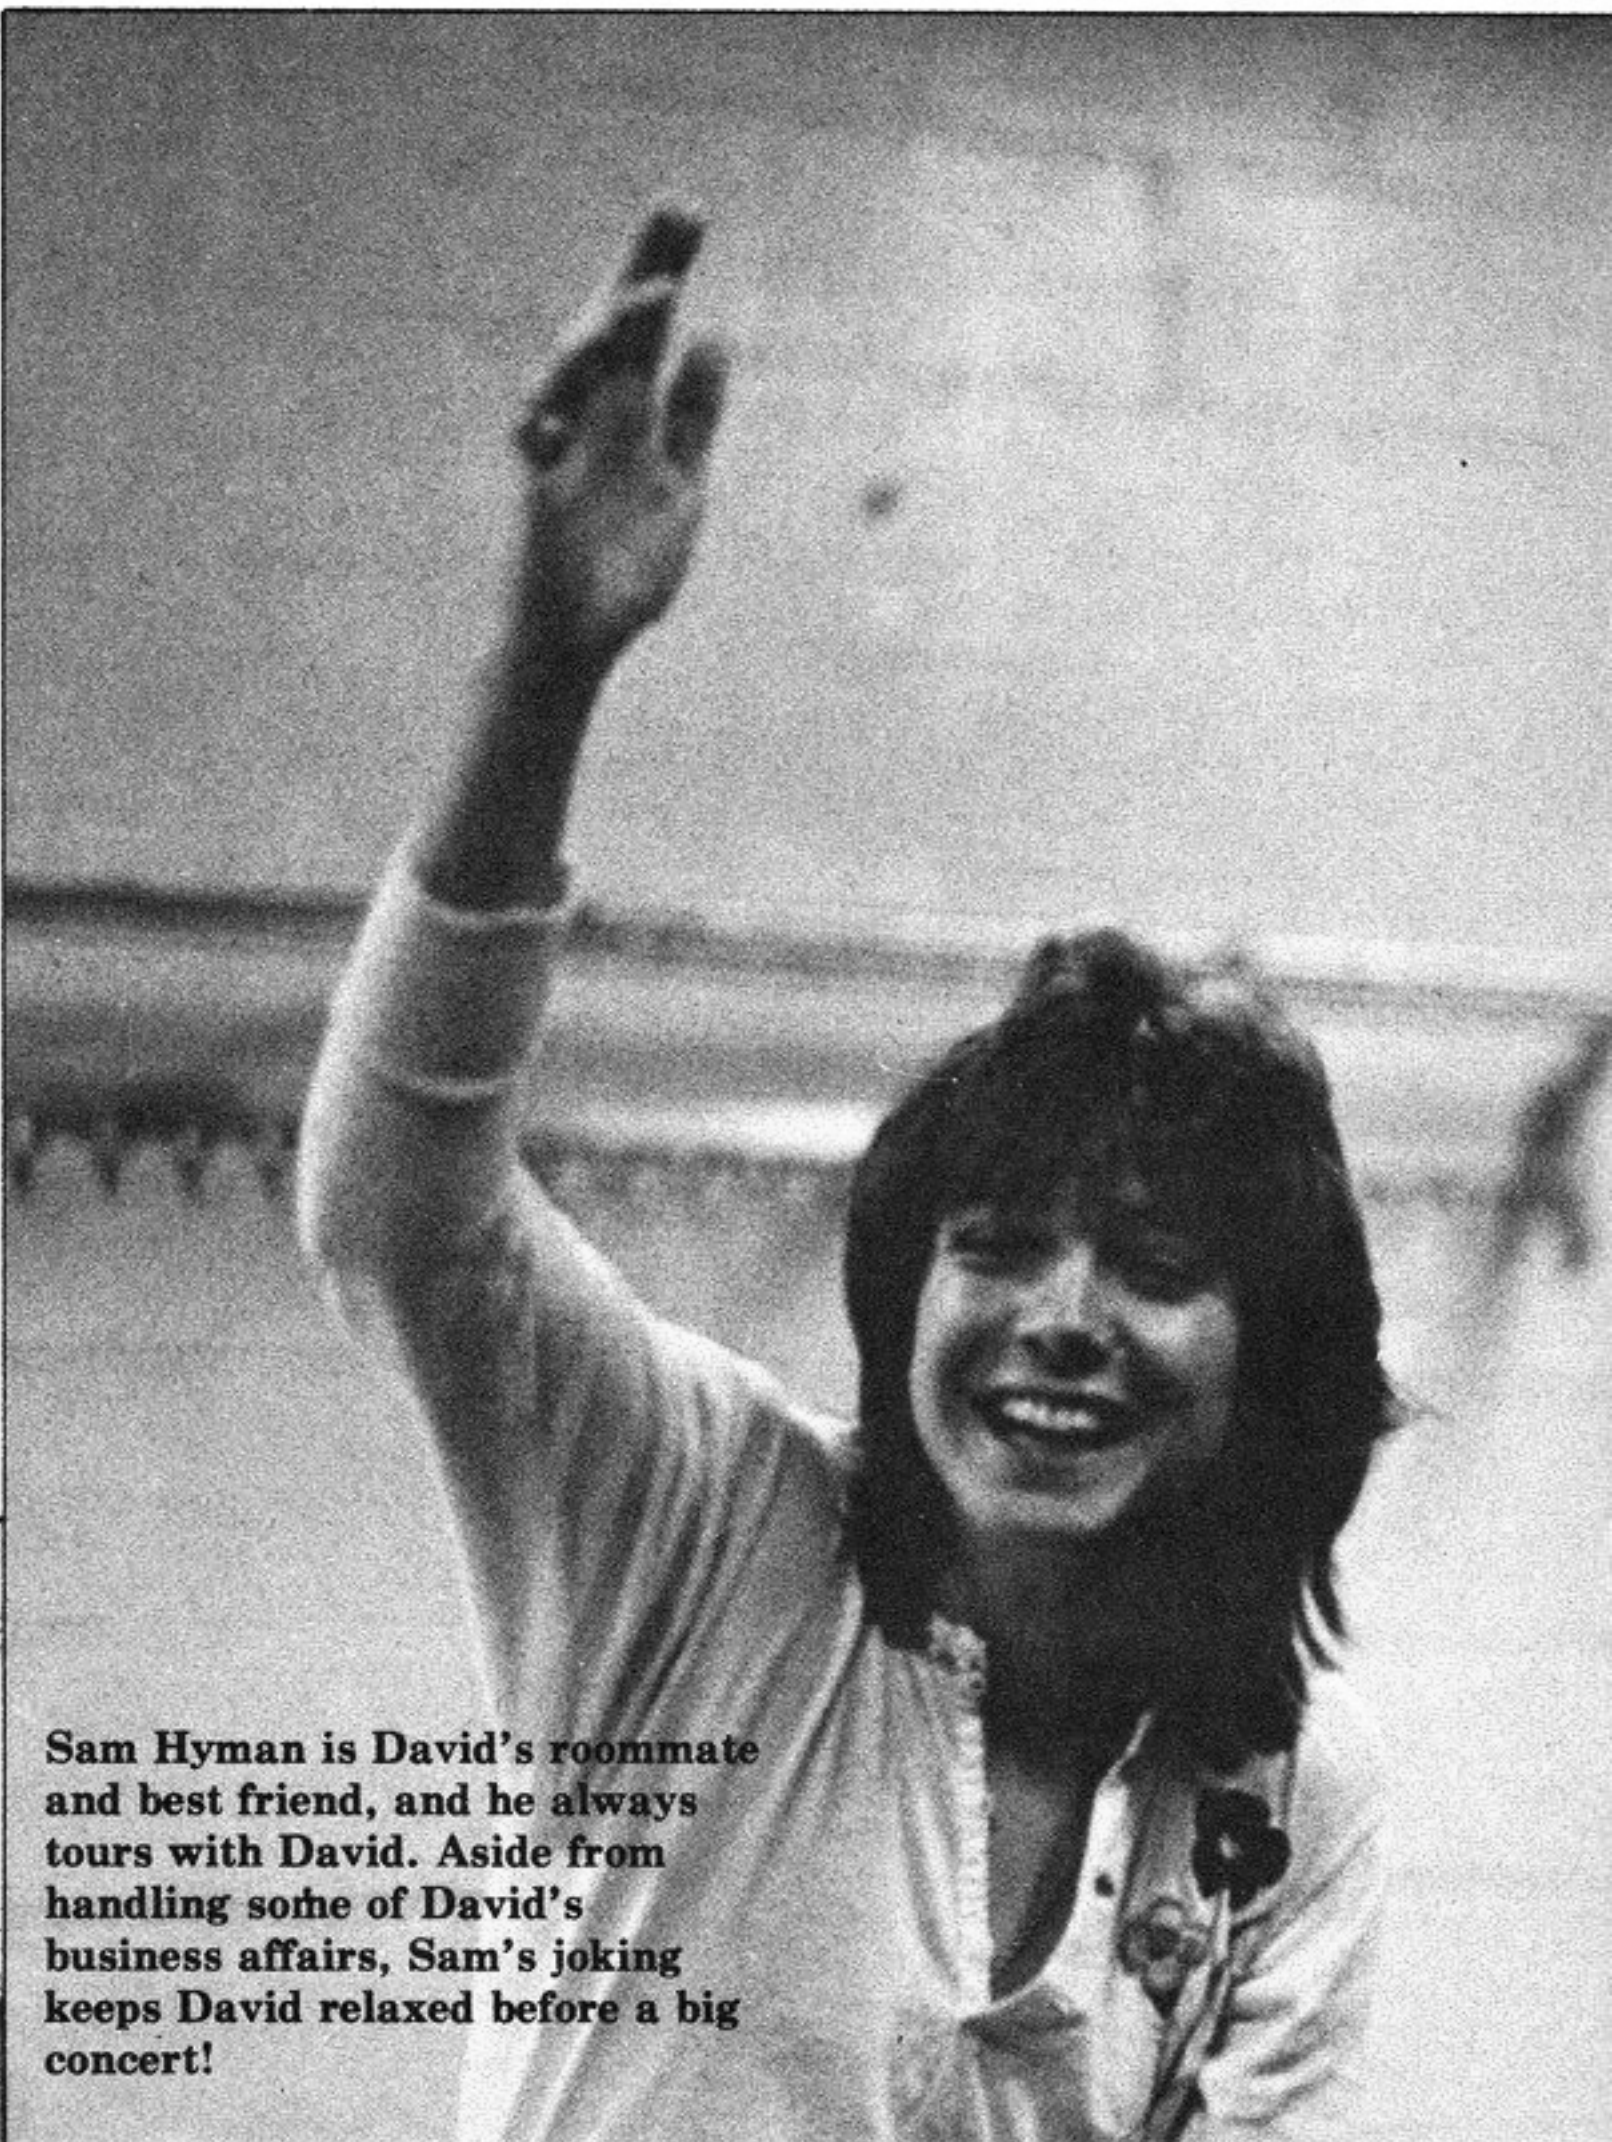

It seems like the waiting will last forever, but finally the house lights go down, and the spotlight shines as David runs onstage waving and smiling! You're yelling his name and applauding, and you can't decide whether you want to laugh or cry!

. . . But did you ever wonder what David does right before you see him onstage? Like, where was he when you arrived at the arena for the concert? What was he doing at the moment you were trying to convince the security guard to let you have just one quick peek backstage?

To answer those questions, FLIP was backstage with David on the day of one of his biggest concerts—at Madison Square Garden in New York City.

And here's your backstage scoop!

Sam Hyman is David's roommate and best friend, and he always tours with David. Aside from handling some of David's business affairs, Sam's joking keeps David relaxed before a big concert!
