

FOR SUSAN:

Dear Susan,

Do you ever wear lipstick or nail polish? What do you think about the new bright and dark colors!

Marge Decon

Dear Marge,

First, no, I don't usually wear lipstick, but I do like it on other people. Some girls look good in some things and others don't. Now I think Cher Bono looks really fabulous in the dark lipstick and dark nail polish and it goes with her style. I never wear nail polish, but if I did I'd go for something softer like a pale pink or a light frosted shade. Sometimes I'll use a coat of clear nail hardener just to keep my nails from splitting. You never can tell though, someday I might change my mind and give it a try!

Dear Susan,

I was happy to hear that you got a part in the movie "Skyjacked!" Can you tell me how working on a film compares to filming for television?

Carrie Blake

Dear Carrie,

I was happy too, when I found out I had gotten the part! It was so exciting to work on a picture with Charlton Heston. I've always admired him. When you work on a film, the pace is much slower than a TV show. Television is so demanding because you only have a week to film one show and sometimes they try to cover 10 pages of script a day. With movies, they might take a whole day to cover just one page, especially if it's a rough scene! On a movie, they take the time to work on the specific things and get them down just right. There was one scene in the movie that took 15 retakes and then finally they got what they were after! In television you're pressed for time. You have to really be prepared and have your lines down pat because they can't spend too much time on one scene. I really had fun working on the picture and I learned a lot of new things!
