

FLIP's Giggle Contest!

Merrill Osmond—

When we were in Las Vegas we were in the middle of a crowd of fans and we were signing autographs and I turned to say something to Jay. Then when I looked at the autograph I'd just signed I discovered I'd signed Jay's name! I couldn't believe it—I signed Jay's name!

Well, I suppose everyone's heard about the fire we had on our last tour. Everyone's been teasing me a lot about that because here was our hotel room on fire and the costumes going up in smoke and all I could think about was my football! I had to make sure my football was OK! Luckily I found it OK and it had only been singed a little. Then everyone got mad at me because I took it with me on the bus for the rest of the tour and the whole bus smelled like burnt leather!

Barry Williams—

The other day I had a day off, so I went to the beach to go surfing. But when I got there the surf was really bad. Since I'd gone all the way down there, though, I decided to wait it out. I waited and waited and waited, and ended up surfing by moonlight!

Wayne Osmond—

I think the funniest thing that's happened to me lately was while I was flying. You know I have my pilot's license—well, I was so busy getting that license that I never got around to getting my driver's license and so every time I'd go to the airport to fly I'd have to have Alan drive me there because I only had a flying license and not a driver's license. That was pretty silly. But now I have my driver's license too, so Alan doesn't have to drive me around anymore.

Andy & David Williams—

On our recent trip to New York, our hotel room was across the hall from our publicist, Florence Semon's. We just about drove her crazy with practical jokes—like hiding her bathrobe and slippers—but she finally got us back! At 1:30 one morning she telephoned us to ask if we were sleeping! (We told her we were!)
