

up-to-date with DAVID

Are you getting tired of touring around, doing concerts, or is it still fun?

Sometimes—after working on the show and recording all week it does drain me a bit, but it is still a fantastic experience for me and I have met so many beautiful people I just can't give it up.

Is there any special girl in your life at this time?

Not one in particular, although I am going out a little more now. I can't search for someone—it'll just happen.

How many guitars do you have now? Are you playing all of them on your new album?

I honestly have lost count. Perhaps around ten or twelve, but it always changes. — I only played two of them on my new album.

Do you still read your fan mail, and do you answer any of it?

Now more than ever. For a long time I had felt out of touch with my fans. They seemed to give so much by writing so often and caring. The least I can do is read what they had to say—although I don't have a chance or the time to answer it all—I try
