

10 Reasons Why I Smile

By David

DREAMS: Have you ever noticed that those people who have lost the zest for life are people who have forgotten how to dream? People who are bored with life are those who have missed out on touching the magical wonder of dreaming! By dreaming, I don't mean castles in the skies or a million dollars in copper pennies! Dreams, for me, can be wishing on a shooting star, hoping for a rainbow after a spring shower, or praying that the woman of my dreams enters my life soon!

EARLY MORNING: It used to be a big chore to get up early in the morning. But one day, my eyes popped open moments before sunrise...and I spent a few minutes waiting for the sun's first rays to hit the horizon. There's something about the morning that's sort of inspirational. I mean, there's the sun painting the buildings, houses, trees, lawns and skies with colors that only the sun could create! It was an eye-opening experience—and believe me, I plan on seeing a lot more of the early morning hours from now on!

MUSIC: I've said it many times before, and I'll say it again because it's the truth—my world wouldn't be complete without the sounds of music in it! I've spent too many good times listening, recording, and appreciating good music to ever ignore it or forget about it! I love music and it's been good to me!

HAPPY FACES: Now don't think I mean those big sunny happy faces—although they are sort of cute! I think the most fantastic happy faces on earth are the smiling faces of little children. Have you ever seen a bashful smile from a child about five years old? It melts my heart in about three seconds when a small child smiles at me—a young child has the truest happy face when there's a smile on his lips!

CLEAR SKIES: Although it's pretty romantic and cozy to have an occasional spring shower or cloudburst, I'm still a sunny day type of guy! I love clear, blue skies. The most tremendous shade of blue is the blue of the skies when it's completely cloud-free!

CONTINUED ON PAGE 58