MEMORIES OF LOVE

I wrote this poem in memory of David Cassidy's dog. May he always walk in sunshine and God's love around him flow, For the happiness he gave David, no one will ever know. It breaks his heart to lose him, but he did not go alone A part of David went with him, the day God called him home. A million times David needed him, a million times he cried. If love could have only saved him, he never would have died.

SCREAMED & SCREAMED!

Thanks for choosing me as one of the winners in the "Win a Check from David Contest." I screamed my head off when I got the news! Thanks again.

MUCH TOO GREAT

I just heard my friend's third Partridge album, and I almost flipped! It's the best album ever, and David sings better on this one than on all his others!

WATCH OUT!

I just gave my mother the "Osmond's Love Test" in your Dec. issue, and she scored 100 on Merrill's test! Watch out, Merrill, MOM'S COMING!

JACKSON SIX?

I may be a teenager, but I sure do like little Randy Jackson, soon to become one of the Jackson Five! If you'd ever see him, you'd know what a darling, outasite guy he is. You haven't seen anything till you've seen him in action! Agree?

THREE CHEERS!

Hurray for the Osmonds—they've done it again! You know how? By just being their same sweet beautiful selves! Keep up the good work, Osmonds! I love you!

THE KING AND I

I was lucky enough to see Elvis Presley when he appeared at the Spectrum and now I know why he is called the "King." He was fantastic! Elvis wore a white outfit trimmed with black, with a matching cape, and looked as good as he sounded. I saw Bobby Sherman and David Cassidy in concert too and they were great, but they could never be compared to Elvis! I wish all of Elvis' fans could've been there, 'cause they would have loved him even more!

GORGEOUS LOCKS

In your Dec. FaVE RaVES two fans wrote they liked David Cassidy's hair now and don't want to see it any longer. Well, I'd like to say that it's as long as I'd like to see it too. If he lets it grow any longer, it may look like a girl's hair, so please, David, keep it the way it is now!

THE NAME GAME

What two things have nine letters and mean the same? The answer is HAPPINESS and JAY OSMOND!
