May raises the roof on

George Hamilton and May, longtime friends, at a party celebrating money he made from his successful "Evil Knievel." His fiancée, Alana Collins is decorating his new house in Palm Springs. Contrary to reports, George's mother is happy about the approaching nuptials.

We didn't catch the name of Ryan O'Neal's date before his hospitalization, but hear that wife Leigh Taylor Young is by his side now that he's home recuperating from surgery.

■ David Cassidy, today's hottest new star, postcards from London he's "having a groove." But—what a welcome! First day in Rome David rented a camper, loaded up with photographic equipment and parked near the Forum to go sight seeing. Minutes later, thieves broke into his car and stole everything, including his clothes, passport, money, you name it, leaving David stranded! David called home pronto, and next the American Consul in Rome to get going again. "Wow," he said, "What a way to say 'hello' in Europe!"

Legals: That Elvis Presley-Patricia Parker paternity suit was delayed for new evidence. . . . Lana Turner picked up her divorce from Ron Dante, who should be ashamed of his remarks about Lana. . . . Raquel Welch was freed from Pat Curtis. . . . Investigations into Peter Duel's death (was so shocked; had talked to him day before and he sounded so great) reveal Kim Darby was his new pash. . . . Royal Kings, presidents and many world figures have doubles who are exact look-alikes to protect them from assassination, kidnapping plots, etc. We've always heard Howard Hughes has too for years.

Gary Collins and Catherine Ferrar in ABC's new "The Sixth Sense" tell, "Things we are experiencing on our show are fantastic!" "I always believed in ESP," said Gary, "even though I couldn't get proof to establish some of it. It was like you always believe in Santa Claus. But today—it's no longer science fiction. Many things on our show are documented!"
