

DAVID CASSIDY

POP STAR OF THE MONTH

What price stardom? Ask the beleaguered David Cassidy, young America's newest and most sensational heartthrob! David Cassidy the name and the voice that sends millions of girls into fits of screaming ecstasy - the envy of young men everywhere! But is his life all glamour, all spotlights - all joy? Read on and then answer that question for yourself.

When David lived in his Laurel Canyon home he just started in the Partridge Family. Hidden all the way in the canyon, he was soon discovered and it got to the point that he dreaded coming home after a full days shooting, afraid of what he would find waiting for him in his driveway. It started at first with the harassment of phone calls, until David finally had to get an unlisted number. Now at his home he didn't have a moments peace. There were girls constantly peeking through the windows, little love notes being written on his car with lipstick, it got to the point he didn't know where to turn or to whom. There was only one answer - the Real Estate lady, he had to get away. She had to help him in his hour of need. He had to flee from his home.

Now with a busy shooting schedule starting sometimes at 6:00 a.m. and working until 8:00 p.m. David didn't have a moment to look. His Real Estate contact would line things up for him and he would have to put it off until the weekend. When the weekend came there was another delay, he was leaving Friday evening for a personal tour, there just wasn't a leisure moment and David was tired too tired to even find a place that he could call his home.

His tours were always a sellout and it got to a point that members of the audience would sometimes pass out
