

No one in the Partridge Family will ever forget their visit from Dr. Henry Kissinger, advisor to President Nixon, and his children, Elizabeth 12 and David, 10. The Kissingers are shown here with David Cassidy and Shirley Jones, who gave their autographs.

Is Danny really ready to join the army? Shirley Jones, as Mrs. Partridge, ponders the problem.

Danny's two great ambitions: to become a top actor, and to own his own mini-bike. He already owns a horse, that he calls "Patience," because his Mom and Dad have said that Danny doesn't have any.
