

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT DAVID
(Before
You Fall
In Love
With Him!)

"For better or worse, in sickness and in health"—you know that's part of the wedding vows. But, where David is concerned, the vows should include "with or without eccentricities!"

Everyone has their little quirks—things that are really nothing... little things that people do that wouldn't ordinarily bother someone else. But, if you love someone and are spending a lot of time with him—or, if you're married to him—then those little eccentricities that the other person has, can build up and up until you can't take it anymore!

"COULD MY WIFE TAKE IT?"

David's the first to admit that he has unusual habits, likes and dislikes that just might take a while to get used to or live with!

"I'm full of idiosyncrasies!" David laughs. "I guess I don't notice them or even think of them as unusual.

But living with roommates can open up your eyes! Sam complains sometimes about my strange ways... but it's easy for him to just get away for a while and forget about it." David smiled. "He won't be living with me the rest of his life—so if I get on his nerves, he can have moving out to look forward to!"

MIDNIGHT STROLLS, ANYONE?

David speaks seriously now, "But with my wife, whoever she will be, it won't be that easy. It would take a while to adjust to being married, anyway, even without my weird habits! I wonder if she'll be able to take it!"

Yes, the girl who falls in love with David will have to like a lot of the same things David does, or at least understand some of the things he
