

There's nothing like a little silly fun to break up a hard day's work. At least that's what the cast of "The Partridge Family" think. They're always coming up with new games to play.

Like the day these pictures were taken. They were all on location in a lovely wooded canyon near Hollywood on a warm, sticky day. The first few scenes of the day just involved Shirley so the kids started looking for something fun to do.

Naturally it was Danny who found the long, long rope and talked a couple of people into turning it so he and Suzanne could jump.

It wasn't long before the whole cast and several of their stand-ins were involved in the First Annual Partridge Family Jump-rope Competition.

Final decision of the judges (all the crew and anyone else who was hanging around) named David and Danny as tied for first place. Suzanne got honorable mention for effort (she tried very hard) and Susan was named most stylish jumper. Brian had a tummy ache that day so he sat by the side lines most of the time.
