

ances, then why does he work day and night on his career? How come he has very little time for anything else but his work? David is no different from what he was two years ago when all this began. He works with the same people and likes them very much. Surely he couldn't tire of them and his work so soon! He's the same guy he was then and he may have a little more to show for it now, but none of his super success has gone to his head. He rarely goes out anywhere, and when he does it's usually with a group of his friends; most of his time is spent in his house, studying and composing new songs. He hasn't let any of us down. He continues to work hard for what he has. Yet, it is really us who have let him down. We haven't been supporting him while the odds are stacking up against him. He can't fight his rival and enemy forces alone—he needs the help of all of us. We have to show him and the people who have been backing him financially that we love him and want him to continue being our teen idol. David hasn't corrupted us; he hasn't done anything that warrants our shunning his concerts. No, indeed, on the contrary, he has given us so much enjoyment and happiness. Doesn't he deserve a little in return? Now is the time to act. Now is the time to help. Get out that pen and paper and make yourself known. Write to Movie World at Magazine Management, Co., 625 Madison Avenue, New York, New York 10022, and tell its editors how you feel about David. Together we can squash the conspiracy that threatens to destroy him. Only you can stop the people who are out to get him!

PAUL NEWMAN

seems, Joanne has decided to step out of the shadows and become more independent. She is stepping, in fact, not only out of the shadows, but out of the house as well! She explains, "There comes a moment in life when you have to reassess how you feel about almost everything. I'm in the middle of that right now. My disillusionment is great . . . the whole situation is heartbreaking."

Oddly enough, although Joanne is leaving the house, Paul is not at all upset. For he realizes that she will be leaving for the best of all possible reasons—to help world conditions. As she puts it, "Vietnam, ecology, I find it all so discouraging. I haven't been doing interviews—after a while you find you're getting glib, as if you know everything. I don't think I know anything at all. In the theater you tend to become insulated . . . suddenly you realize there's a whole world out there . . ."

What Joanne intends to do is take courses at Sarah Lawrence's Center for Continuing Education. She explains that "I don't have the background I want; I'd
