

... he no longer appeared each week. That was when "Here Come The Brides" was cancelled. Bobby spent some time wondering how he could get back to all of you—wondering when his next show would get started, but he managed to keep busy.

... his Christmas album was released. That was a special time for him because the "Goin' Home" LP brought back some dear memories of his boyhood. He vowed that year to really do something to take better care of "Mother Earth."

... Bobby got the itch to travel and took his concert tour to Japan. They loved him and he of course loved them. He had a great visit in a whirlwind of touring, gift-giving, conferences and sight-seeing. And of course the concert was a blast!

... TRAGEDY struck on the same day as the earthquake. His dog Dopey was run over and killed in a car accident.

... he really gets busy again, this time filming a pilot for his new show on the "Partridge Family."

... he brought Walley, a cuddly bloodhound, home to replace Dopey.

... was honored with a Humanitarian Award from the Variety Club of Southern California. Bobby Sherman Day was
