

"Letters—he gets letters—he gets stacks and stacks of letters . . ." This is one song that could have been written with David Cassidy in mind. He gets enough mail to keep an entire post office humming! And naturally, because he gets so many letters, he doesn't have the time to answer them all. Do his loving fans understand this? Or do they hold it against him? Well, here's a letter that was recently sent to David in care of the TEEN LIFE offices. Can you imagine how he felt knowing he was the cause of a bitter, unhappy letter like this? How would you have felt in his place?
