

DAVID PLEADS-

"PLEASE LEAVE ME ALONE!"

More Than Ever, David Cassidy Appears To Be Isolating Himself From Others. He Has—Slowly, But Surely—Become Withdrawn And Secluded. Is David Now Turning His Back On The World Which Gave Him So Much— Or Is There Another Reason For His Recent Retreat?

David Cassidy was 23 this spring. He has made ten record albums, filmed over 75 PF episodes, and done close to 150 in-person concert appearances. He has also done hundreds of interviews, press conferences and photo sittings.

David has travelled almost a million miles since he became a star in 1970; millions of pictures of him have appeared in the world press, millions of words have been written about him, millions of fans have seen him perform, millions of letters have been written to him, millions of dollars have changed hands in his name—and millions of people have wanted something from him!

Is it any wonder that David has become more and more inaccessible? That he frequently needs to be alone just in order to retain his peace-of-mind? No, David is not rejecting the love of his fans, nor is he saying that he doesn't need or want them anymore. He is simply trying to relieve the incredible pressures and demands which have come close to overwhelming him. And to do this he needs your help. Instead of feeling rejected by David now that he wants to be alone for a while, let him know you understand and respect his desire for privacy. It's the best way you can show David your love for him now!
