It's true! At last we've got the competition we promised would come at the end of our David Cassidy Special. To six readers, we're giving away David's brand new album "Dreams Are Nuthin' More Than Wishes" PLUS a huge colour poster PERSONALLY SIGNED BY DAVID!!!

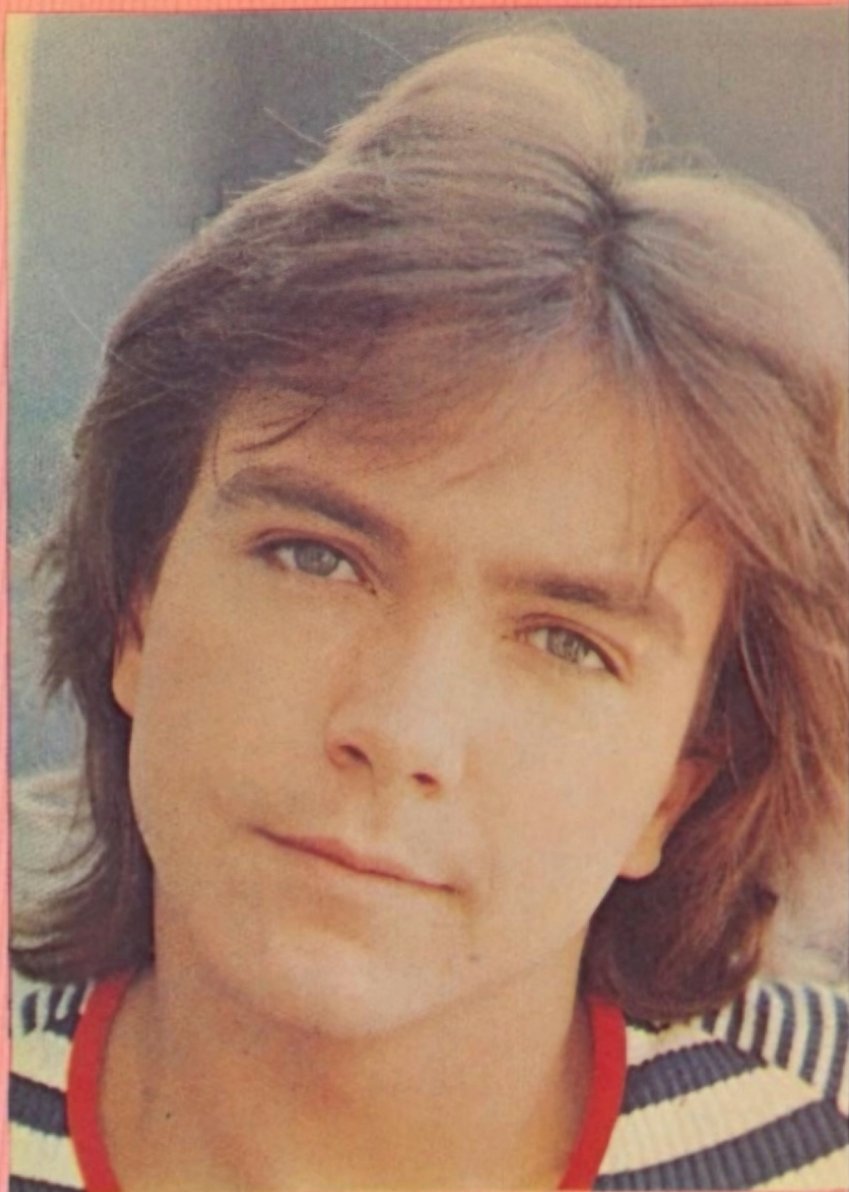

All you have to do is answer the four simple questions that follow, on a postcard with your name and address. The first six entries drawn win the prizes.

Closing date for the competition is Wednesday

December 12, 1973. All entries must be addressed to David Cassidy Competition, Tina, 136 Long Acre, London, WC2 EAP. The Editor's decision is final.

So — get cracking, and best of luck!

- 1 What was David's first solo hit in this country?
- 2 What part did he play in television's "The Partridge Family"?
- 3 Where does he plan to build his dream house?
- 4 AVOID DEVIL. Rearrange those two words into a three-word phrase proclaiming your feelings for David.

LIPS . . . full and pink and glossy and pretty. Considering how much work our lips do for you — always on the move! — it's only natural you should dolly them up with lipsticks, glosses, etc., to give them super-appearance.

Lipstick is, in its way, the most vital part of your finished make-up, however little you are wearing. A lipstick or glosser is the last complimentary touch to a lovely face. Even if you don't like bright lip colours, a clear gloss can be enough to make your lips gleam in a naturally beautiful way.

And it's amazing how well odd-shaped lips can be subtly corrected with the clever use of lip make-up. Lipstick, rather than clear glosses which are looser in texture, are ideal for this. Shaping up is easy .

. . . you can use either a light brown eye pencil (from Boots, or try Outdoor Girl's Brown pencil shadow) or a lip brush (Mary Quant does a super one which can double up as an eye liner brush too). Outline lips carefully — make a firm edge where your lips lack definite shape — then fill in with your chosen lipstick and you can even add a gloss for extra sheen!

Colour is very important when choosing a lipstick — and the pearlised kind are generally much softer and more flattering. For young, fresh colours try selections by Boots 17, Miners and Rimmel. Outdoor Girl do some super colours too. In the glossers department, Rimmel do some smashing Dewy Lip Glossers and Miners Glossers come in a wide selection of shades, including a clear one for a really natural touch. Otherwise, you can try plain old Vaseline which is cheap, but still gives that sleek, shiney appearance!

Try to be colour conscious so that your lipstick blends in well with the clothes you are wearing . . . i.e., if you're wearing a pink jumper, obviously a bright red lipstick or gloss isn't going to look too hot! This is why, basically, natural lip shades are so nice — 'cos they blend in well with just about anything you care to wear!
