

FAN CLUBS

David Bowie:
c/o Hilda
57, Northern Road
Aylesbury, Bucks

Middle of the Road:
c/o Johnny Van,
Haezendonck
5T
Gummarusstraat
B 2000
Antwerp, Belgium

Ilyia Nastase:
c/o Karen and Jean
31, Evelina Road
Peckham
SE15 2DX

Elvis:
c/o Todd Slaughter
Box 4,
Leicester

New Seekers:
c/o Jill
29, St James Street,
London, SW1

Music STARSCOPE

A Valentine story from DAVID

David Cassidy told us this beautiful story.

"It's about a young married couple who are so poor they can't afford to buy each other a Valentine present. The husband has a beautiful gold watch that was handed down for generations through his family, and that's all. And his wife has gorgeous long blonde hair that hangs down to her waist. "The husband goes off very early one morning before his wife is awake to sell his gold watch. With the money he gets for it, he buys his wife a mother-of-pearl comb for her hair.

"But when his wife wakes up she cuts her hair and takes it to the local wig maker. He buys it off her, and with the money she buys a gold chain for her husband's watch. "Neither of them knew what the other had done. "A sad story? Not really. The two loved each other so much there wasn't anything they wouldn't do for each other."

That's what true love is really about. Caring so much for the other person that nothing else — not even your only possession in the world — matters.

If you've got any Valentine stories, why not send them in. We'll pay 100p for every one we print.

SWEETER THAN SWEET

Did you know that Brian Connolly always wanted to be a pop star — more than anything? And his wish came true more easily than for most, but not without a lot of hard work.

While school chums were playing soccer, Brian was taking singing lessons — for seven years. And he stepped right into show business at the ripe old age of 10, appearing in a Nestle amateur talent competition in 1960. His big break came six years later with his first professional job, singing on the "Carroll Levis Discoveries" TV series.

Now, here are Brian's favourites: colour — red; food — spaghetti bolognese; drink — beer; clothes — casual; singer — Elvis Presley; books — "Tales of Mystery and Imagination," by Edgar Allan Poe; actor-actress — Steve McQueen and Natalie Wood; instrumentalist — Chas Hodges; groups — Three Dog Night and the Roy Young Band. How much do you have in common with Brian? Think about your favourites — and find out!

How to be Beautiful

by MARIE OSMOND

Did you know that the way you stand, sit and walk can make you either more or less attractive to the opposite sex? Marie Osmond told us how important it is to have good posture:

"The way a girl stands and carries herself is very important if she wants to be beautiful. Good posture is just as important as the hours you spend on your hair, make-up and wardrobe.

"The secret of good posture is always to be aware of every muscle in your body. This is called kinesthesia. Have you ever wondered how you look to others? The best way to tell is to stand in front of a mirror — not just any old mirror but one of those three-way mirrors you find in shop dressing rooms so you can study yourself from the side view.

"But be critical now.

"When you stand, hold your head high, pull back your shoulders and raise your chest and tuck your bottom under. The muscles may pull a bit and you may feel slightly uncomfortable because you're not used to this stance — but you'll look a hundred times better.

"Sometimes when you're tired, you may find yourself slouching and shifting your weight from one foot to another. Not only does this make you look unattractive, but you are placing a tremendous burden on your legs. Distribute your weight evenly and let your whole body absorb what you had been forcing onto one leg."