Dear Pat,

I think it's a shame that great composers like Gilbert O'Sullivan and Elton John don't really get the recognition they deserve. I know that their records make the charts, but compared to their success in America they're almost ignored in this country. It's no wonder they spend most of their time over there. Why don't we make 1973 a great year in this country for Gilbert and Elton! — Jenny Layton, Lincoln, Lincolnshire.

● Take a look on page 8 for a pic of Gilbert, Jenny!

Dear Pat,

I was really pleased when I found that you're writing about birds as well as fellas! I went wild when I saw your super pics of Lynsey De Paul and Linda Lewis and stuck the whole lot up on my wall. Thanks again. — Martin Wilkinson, Hull, Yorks.

● Hope you like Cilla Black on page 28, Martin!

Scott gets ever so lonely if he doesn't get any letters. He mopes about the office like a lost puppy. So I thought it'd be a nice idea if you all dropped him a line. Just to cheer him up. He's not too fussy what he gets — letters, poems, a story or a joke — after all it's the thought that counts. And we'll print the best ones in Music Star — and pay you 100p for them — can't be bad, can it?

Send your letters to Scott, Music Star, Fleetway House, Farringdon Street, London EC4.

Win yourself a lovely piece of green and white paper with a super pin-up of Queen Elizabeth II. Know what we mean? Yes, we're giving away £1 or 100p. if you like, to every reader whose letter's printed here. So put your thinking caps on and get writing!!

Dear Pat,

I love the Osmonds, but I wish they'd spend more time in this country. When they were last here they didn't play any Scottish dates at all and as I'm still at school I couldn't afford to travel to any of their other dates.

I don't think it's fair that people living in London get all the chances of seeing the best groups. Scotland's a big place and there are thousands and thousands of Osmond fans living here — so why are we ignored? — Carol McManus, Glasgow, Scotland.

● The Osmonds themselves were very disappointed they couldn't make it to Scotland as they'd heard so many nice things about it, but they should be playing some Scottish dates during their next British tour, which should be in November.

Dear Pat,

Let's have some more pictures and info about Colin Blunstone! I think he's got the greatest voice in the world and that "I Don't Believe In Miracles" was the best song made last year. It should have made the top of the charts and I only hope that his new single, "How Could We Dare To Be Wrong", makes it instead. — Penny Davis, Blackpool, Lancs.

● Turn to page 10 for a super pin-up of Colin and page 11 for lots of info about your favourite star, Penny!
