

In England, David Cassidy talked about everything. . . his fans, girls, drugs, past mistakes and just everything!

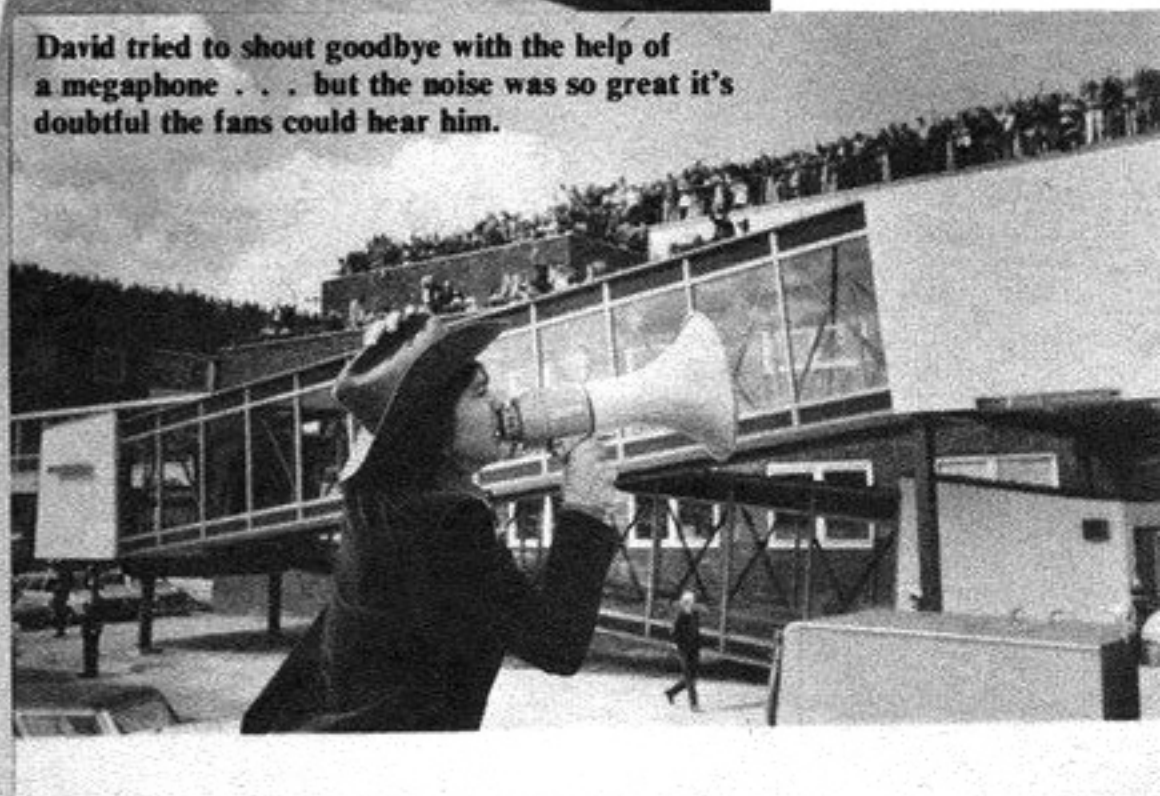

When David left for the States, some 3,000 screaming fans came to the airport and gave the London Bobbies a hard time.

One girl did manage to break through and get an autograph before being led back to the barriers.

David tried to shout goodbye with the help of a megaphone . . . but the noise was so great it's doubtful the fans could hear him.

David had to charter himself a yacht to stay safe from fans while he recorded some shows in London.