

DAVID:

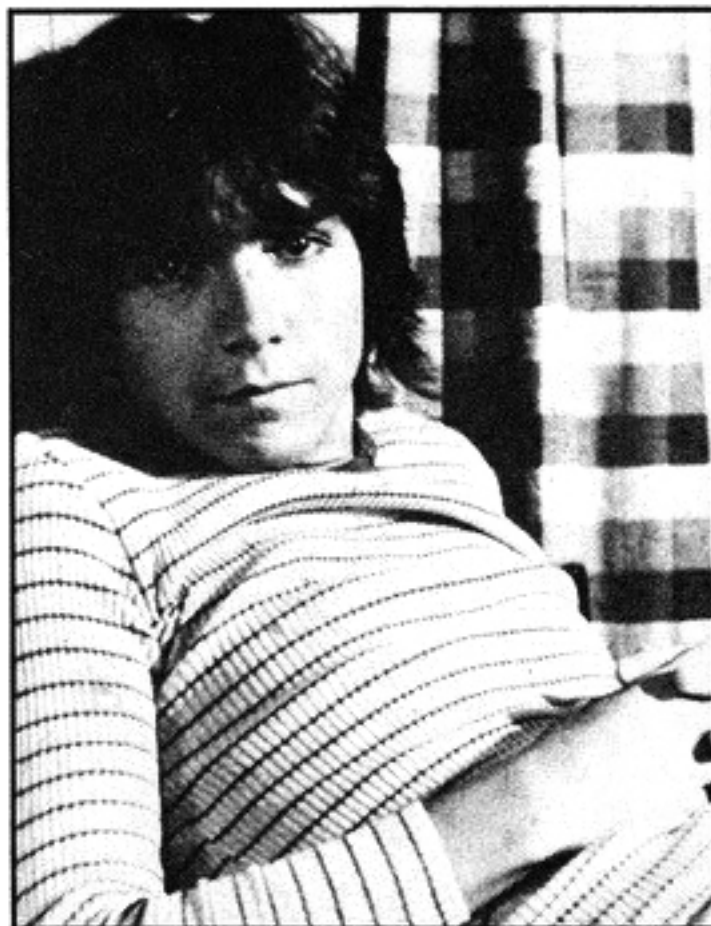

THE MASKS

There are HALF A DOZEN David Cassidy's!

HE WEARS!

David may seem like an uncomplicated guy who always acts like himself, no matter what the circumstances, but it's not true! The fact is that David has all sorts of masks that he wears, and the way he might be with you is entirely different than the way he'd behave with somebody else! In fact, when two people who have met David for the first time get together to compare notes, they're likely to wind up thinking they didn't even meet the same person!

On the set, for instance, David is all business. He's a pro, and he always shows up ready for work—and he expects everybody else to be the same way. If there's an actor who doesn't know his lines, or a director who keeps falling behind schedule, the David they'll meet isn't the happy-go-lucky guy you might imagine when you think of him. That grin isn't on his face too often, and he makes it known, by the extra efficiency he brings to his acting, that he doesn't really approve of people who aren't ready to do their jobs! After all, a film company is made up of forty or fifty people, and one actor or director who's blowing it inconveniences each and every one of them!

If you met David at a party, among friends, after seeing him on the set on a bad day, you wouldn't believe it was the same person. He's
