

Pop Dreams

What do you dream about at night? Do you have one dream that you get night after night, or one special dream that you'll never forget? Or even a nasty, horrible nightmare? Why not write and tell us about it? But in the meantime read about some of the sleeping thoughts of your favourite superstars.

ANDY WILLIAMS

"I'm walking along a beach somewhere and the waves are breaking against the shore. It's almost night time, the sun is setting and there's absolutely no one in sight, until away in the distance I can see another person walking. I can't see who it is, but I gradually come closer and realise it's a girl. And I get closer still until I've almost caught up with her, but she still has her back to me — then when I'm right behind her she begins to turn round to face me and I'm just about to see her face . . . and I wake up! But one day I'm going to see her."

DAVID CASSIDY

"One dream that I have is of feeling totally free and easy. The wind is blowing warm in my face and the air is totally clear — I can see for ever it seems. I'm usually on a horse, galloping along a plain and the sun is shining down. It seems like the whole world is stretched out in front of me and I can see everything that's happening everywhere as I pass by on my horse, but I just keep riding on."

ALICE COOPER

"I remember one dream I had a while back. It was rather spooky. I was in the middle of a forest somehow and I was trying to get out. I walked this way and that, but every direction I turned I got deeper and deeper into the bushes and creepers and things, until I couldn't go any further. So I had to turn back and try again, but every time I did, the trees closed in further and further until I couldn't move at all and I started to panic I was surrounded by greenery pressing closer and closer, until thankfully I woke up. That one was pretty frightening I can tell you."
