REVEALS-

For the love of David Cassidy—thousands of British schoolgirls saved their pennies, played hooky, went to the airport to meet him—and then spent days following dashin' David Cassidy around on his recent English concert tour. After playing in Holland and Germany, David's warmest greeting was far and away that extended by his exuberant British fans!

No sooner had David gotten off the plane than the British press was after him for interviews. In fact, things got so out-of-hand that eventually David had to charter a private plane for travel, and spent most of his time in England in a secret hideaway estate! But he loved it all!

Lucky Laura Cobain, who quit her job and waited three days before the concert hall in Belle Vue, Manchester, England, actually got to meet her idol. In fact, David even gave her a kiss!

Other English weenyboppers did all sorts of things like jumping in hotel pools and climbing along roof ledges to try to get David's attention—and an "audience" with him! As for David, he read all about it in the next day's morning paper!
