OOOOO & bop-shoo-bop were the words Alan, Merrill & Wayne sang during their rocking '50's number.

HOME SHOOTING

FaVE was lucky enough to get a "home" shooting with the Osmonds while they were guests of a house that's owned by Caesar's. The boys didn't stay at the hotel this time--Caesar's provided them with this fabulous split level, 5-bedroom house with a swimming pool while they performed in Las Vegas!

When Kenny and I arrived at their "home" we were greeted at the door by no one--just a door slowly opening as if by magic! When I peered behind the door, there was Merrill's smiling face peering back at me! He was playing a little joke--and I asked him if he always answered a door that way, Merrill laughed and joked, "Of course, doesn't everybody?"

Before I forget, I have to tell you that Ono--the Os-mond's friend and helper picked us up at the hotel to personally drive us to the Osmonds. Ono was so cute--he was loaded down with flowers and boxes of candy that Osmond fans had asked him to deliver! He's getting to be quite a celebrity himself!

LITTLE JIMMY

As I stood at the front door, Donny was walking down the stairs, tucking his shirt in and smiling--he saw me and said, "Hi Lizzie, how are you?"

As he walked down and towards me, I realized, again, just how good looking Donny really is! But I think what really impresses me most about Donny and his entire family is that they are soooo NICE!

of the dining room playing a game, but when we walked in, he flashed his adorable smile, said "Hi everybody!" and invited us to play his game. He was knocking down little plastic cowboys and horses with carefully aimed rubber bands. I tried a few--and Jimmy told me that the secret to getting a "whole bunch" is to really aim carefully. I still didn't improve--but I sure enjoyed his company!

I have so much more to tell you about the Osmonds "winning a palace"--but I want to leave lots of room for the pictures--I'm sure you understand.

So I'll sign off now--be sure and write--and remember to be good to those you love. Have a beautiful day!
