

What makes you happy
and what makes you sad?
Laugh or cry. Smile or frown? We asked
a few of our favourite stars what makes them
happy and sad . . .

Donny Osmond says . .

I feel happiest when . . . I can pass on my feelings to our fans in a song.
Especially when our fans show their appreciation by buying those songs.

I feel saddest when . . . I see the wonders of nature being taken for granted. I hate seeing people
spoiling the countryside.

Michael Jackson says . .

I feel happiest when . . . I am playing baseball on a sunny day with my brothers.

I feel saddest when . . . I have had an argument with my brothers and if I'm not speaking to them.

David Cassidy says . .

I feel happiest when . . . I play in my garden with my dog and a good friend to share that happiness.

I feel saddest when . . . I can't see my family and my close friends as often as I would like to.

David Williams says . .

I feel happiest when . . . I go out to see around a museum and look at the fascinating things that are there for me to see.

I feel saddest when . . . I am ill in bed and cannot go out in the sun.

Andy Williams says . .

I feel happiest when . . . I am playing football with friends. And when I am having a good time.

I feel saddest when . . .
David is annoyed with me.
I like him so much that I hate to argue with him.
