

Some people have been trying to persuade us that David isn't what he used to be. That he's finished. That he even dislikes his fans now. Well as far as we're concerned those people can go and take a running jump off a 1,000ft. precipice. David turns us on — we admit it. Last time we saw him, we wondered what turned him on. This is what he told u

DAVID

What turns me on..

"Most things really. I like nearly everything that's beautiful. Especially what do I like? Let me see . . .

"Natural girls — girls who are beautiful without having to wear make-up or anything.

"I like bare feet. In the summer I hardly ever wear shoes at all. It's a lovely feeling walking barefoot.

"I like sunsets. They really turn me on.

"Of course, I like falling in love. Or would like to at least.

"I like travelling round the world and meeting new people, making new friends. Friends really turn me on. Where would we be without them?

"I love my family.

"I love you, too.

"I like the countryside. Especially when it's unspoilt and not polluted.

"I like acting and singing, of course.

"I like dreaming and popcorn! Really, I like all things beautiful."

...and off

"Now, that's more difficult. There aren't many things that really turn me off. Mostly it's things that would turn anyone off. I don't have any special pet hates, except:

"Inconsiderate people really turn me off.

"So do people who litter the countryside.

"Girls with lots of make-up, I don't like, but they don't really turn me off.

"I hate wars and violence.

"I hate unhappiness of any kind.

"Or a stray dog without an owner.

"I also hate seeing old people in the street who are obviously lonely.

"And those terrible Oxfam adverts — they always upset me.

"And being forced to do things I don't want to do.

"And also I don't like not having anything to do.

"I suppose there are lots more things really, but I can't think of them. I don't want to. I'm much happier thinking of the things I do like."
