Next week is David Cassidy week. David'll be flying in to Ringway Airport in Manchester next week and that calls for something extra-special on our part.

So, just for you, we'll have a special pull-out section in Music Star called "Welcome to David". There'll be dozens of colour pin-ups and hundreds of things you never knew about him — the sort of things no David Cassidy fan can afford not to know. . . .

And that's not all!

Sue popped round to see our astrologer last week and persuaded her to draw up a star chart on Marc Bolan. And she explains what the magical and mysterious boy of pop is really like — as it's written in the stars. . .

And that's not all either! !

There'll be an exclusive meeting with David Bowie with pics you've never seen before — and just for good measure we'll have Slade as well and lots of other fantastic people.

Not forgetting the Osmonds, either!

Not bad, huh?

Place an order straight away and make sure you don't miss next week's fabulous issue of MUSIC STAR.

See you next week!

Love,

Pat, Scott and Sue.

ASK AN OSMOND

Dear Donny,
Are there any people in history whom you admire more than anyone else? We had to write an essay for homework on the subject and I'd like to hear what you have to say about it!
Love,
Penny Lewis

Dear Penny,
There have been so many great people I've admired, it would take pages to list them all! I think that Marie Curie was a great woman, and her discoveries of radium contributed a lot to the field of medicine. Being an American, I also admire our astronauts, and our presidents, too. I admire people who stand up for what they believe.

Dear Alan,
I'm directing this question to you since you're the oldest and probably most experienced out of the five. When you're performing, what happens if you feel a sneeze coming on?
Jane Merrick

Dear Jane,
That's really a good question, one that I don't think anyone's ever asked us before! Luckily, there aren't too many occasions when any of us have to sneeze when we're onstage. Maybe all the excitement and activity has something to do with keeping it away! But if we feel a sneeze coming on and we're not singing at the time, all we can do is hold our breath and hope for the best!
