

Will David Cassidy be driven over a cliff with his dog? What's all this about him getting married? And having two girlfriends? What does he really think of the Osmonds?

No doubt if you were told you have to see David, you'd have a million questions for him. Well, Jean was told to go and chat to him at London Airport (she didn't have to be told twice!!), and she had tons of things she wanted to ask him.

First of all she wanted to know when we'd be seeing him on stage again.

"Well, I'll be touring Europe and lots of other places early next year, and I'll be doing concerts in England, Scotland and Ireland. I don't know the exact dates yet, because we're still working on them — about February. March or April, I'd say.

"It's going to be a different kind of tour from last time, you know, coming back and doing the same thing doesn't really appeal to me. I want to give the fans something new and different. Maybe not better, but different."

Funny

And that's when she again saw David smile. He was a bit nervous because he's been having a rough time, with many appointments to keep. His brief stay had started on a funny note — at least it seems funny now, but when it happened David wasn't laughing at all.

"When I flew from California to New York, someone left my luggage in Los Angeles, so I had absolutely nothing when I arrived in London. I just had what I was wearing, jeans, T-shirt and sneakers. I had a toothbrush . . .

"But as soon as the jet landed, I had to perform for 'Top of the Pops', but I had nothing to wear!

"So they sent out and bought a white suit, and it was miles too big — about size 46! So I was standing in the jet, with the cameras waiting, while about six people rushed about me making alterations and sticking pins and things everywhere.

"But it went off okay, and no-one could spot what had happened when the show went on television. It was funny though, crazy."

Finished

So what's happening with the Partridge Family show?

"Well, I've got about ten weeks to go with it, and then I'm finished with it forever. I won't be going back to it, because I've been 18 for the past three years. It's good fun, and I like to be with the people on the show, but I've got to move on and do other things.

"I don't know how they're going to write me out of the show yet. Maybe they'll send me to college or something so I'll never be seen again. Or they could take me and the dog and just drive over a cliff!!!"

Girlfriend

Who was the girl he was supposed to be seeing in London?

"That was silly — she and another girl who had sung on my album came over because they were supposed to sing on the 'Top of the Pops' spot, but as it happened, they weren't allowed because they didn't have permits.

"So as I'd promised them that they could come, I didn't want to say 'No', so I said they should come anyway and see London.

"But both of them are married, and in fact, as soon as he heard all about the papers saying we were in love or
