

PARTRIDGES & BRADYS: FAMILY FUN,

H EY, ALL YOU Brady bunchers and Partridge people, your two fave TV families will be back on the air this fall. That's great news, of course. Right now, all the Partridges and all the Bradys are in Hollywood, working on their TV shows, doing their very best for you. While they're busy at work, we thought you might want to groove on the family fotos, fax and figures you see below. It'll tell you lots of things you didn't know about all your Partridge and Brady faves.

FAX

Susan Dey would love to learn to sew. She says that store-bought clothes cost too much. She's also into linoleum carving.

Maureen likes to wear jeans and a comfortable top. Her favorite material is muslin.

Danny Bonaduce believes in ghosts because he says he saw one!

Barry Williams real name is Barry Blenkhorn.

Brian Forster's great-great-great grandfather was the great English novelist, Charles Dickens.

Ann B. Davis drives an orange sports car. We hope it's not a lemon!

Robert Reed is filming a made-for-TV movie with Emmy winner, Scott Jacoby. It's called "The Man Who Could Talk To Kids."

By the time she was five, Florence Henderson had memorized more than 50 songs.

David Cassidy recently bought three race horses.

Chris Knight's secret wish is to keep his room as messy as possible without being bugged about it.

Maureen has a Labrador golden retriever named Sage.

Eve Plumb is the Brady Bunch's bookworm. She loves to read.

Suzanne Crough has two dogs: Lady, a collie, and Tramp, half collie-half shepherd. She loves animals, even bugs, which she's not afraid to even pick up.

Shirley Jones' father owned a brewery.

Susan Olsen collects rocks, which she polishes. She enjoys ice skating and swimming.

Mike Lookinland was the first place winner in a Soap Box Derby when he was nine.

Dave Madden's first TV show was called "Camp Runamuck."

Mauréen also appeared in an