

WHAT'S HAPPENING

OSMOND

"A Passion Play" is a smash for England's Jethro Tull.

There's no truth that the Ossies are moving.

Shane Briant from England.

Don Agrati has a LP out.

OSMONDS MOVING? The answer to that question is not hardly, and that comes right from the horse's mouth. The rumors that they're moving to England because of various threats of violence got so out of hand, once a totally fake interview was printed in a dreadful tabloid paper, the entire OSMOND FAMILY called a press conference. The boys all looked scrubbed and gorgeous at that 11 a.m. hour while most of us reporters fumbled about yawningly, and the off-to-London nonsense was totally dispelled. They have had their fair share of crank mail, but who hasn't?

Other interesting tidbits picked up at the PC were that all the boys just went for their purple belts in Karate and every one of them made the grade. Next to come are the black belts and that's the top!

A lot of the rapidly accumulating Osmond fortune has gone toward the building of their ranch in Utah and the latest addition is something Mr. Osmond has always wanted. He's always been interested in a certain type of cattle from Switzerland, and his sons gifted him with several of the same so that he can raise and study his own herd!

DONNY: Would you believe that one of the most sensational events that took place during the Osmonds smash stint in Lake Tahoe was the water fight Donny started after the grown-ups had gone to bed? It began with a few well aimed squirts from his water gun, and soon all the brothers were up to their eyebrows in H₂O! Glasses of water got thrown, and mugs of water and even mouthfuls! DONNY got the worst of the bargain because he was totally soaked, but after all, it was his idea! Here's another would you believe. Their folks didn't even wake up!

MERRILL: Merrill celebrated his birthday in the usual Osmond family tradition, with a party, a big cake and all the trimmings. After getting lots 'a neat presents like a world travel alarm clock that shows the hour practically everywhere, and one of those nifty electric portable radios that doesn't need batteries, all the boys trooped off to see "This Is Cinerama." They managed to get into the theatre without being recognized (how, I'll never know) but wow, did the word get around once
