Here's the first issue of the big new MUSIC WORLD & SUPERSTAR.

As we promised, we've kept as many of your favourite features and fan club newsletters as we possibly could. But we've also made a lot of changes because we wanted to include quite a few new superstars—just look at the photo of Leo Sayer at the left! This month we also have added Gary Glitter and David Bowie.

If you turn to page 10, you'll find details of a great new competition which you must enter, because it gives you a chance to win one of ten fantastic guitars. If you already play guitar, then this is your chance to add a beautiful acoustic model to your collection. If you don't play, this is your chance to learn—without having to spend anything at all on your first instrument. We'll be running lots of great competitions in future issues of MUSIC WORLD & SUPERSTAR, and everyone will have a chance to win an electric guitar, an amplifier or even a piano!

Of course, it's great listening to your favourite superstars singing their latest hits, but it's even better to be able to sing with them yourself—you probably already do and it would be fantastic if you could start making the same sort of music YOURSELF—and why not?

All of today's top stars were once just beginners like you. With a lot of luck and perhaps a bit of help from us (and a lot of hard work from you as well!), one day you might be a superstar yourself.

Make sure you let us know what you like about our new magazine, and also don't forget to enter our great competition—it's absolutely free and you could win a fabulous prize.

This issue was a bit late getting to your local newsagent due to the problems—which you've already heard so much about—and the new—and the next issue may be delayed as well. But it just doesn't seem that there's too much we can do about it. Let's just hope that things will get back to normal by the time you're reading this.
