

DAVID WANTS TO QUIT ACTING!

RACE HORSE OWNER

"Remember the 'Partridge' episode about race horses? I learned a great deal about it during that week, and it really interested me! I go to the track and watch them warm up the horses, wash them down and feed them! It's a whole new world, and it seems the owners at the track don't worry about anything but whether their horse will win!"

A FAMOUS SURGEON

"I turn into putty at the sight of blood, but as long as I'm dreaming, I guess I would want to be a famous surgeon! I enjoy reading about all the breakthroughs they're making today in medicine, and I think it must be thrilling to actually have a hand in helping people like that!"

ACTOR-SINGER

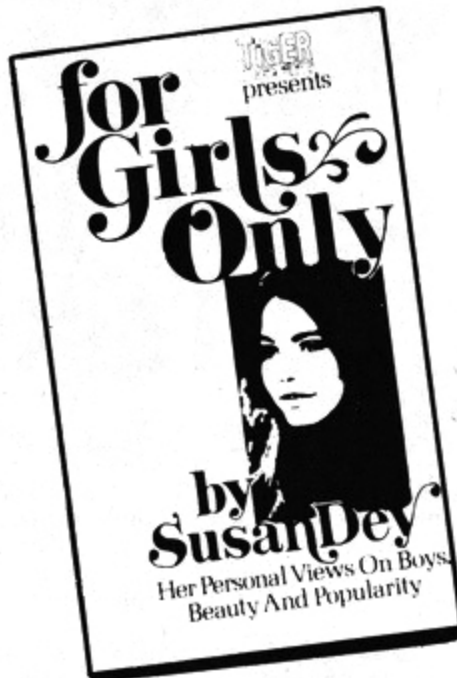

"Somehow it all comes back to actor and singer, doesn't it? Well, we both know that it's in my blood, and that's all there is to it! It's fun dreaming about other professions, because then you can think of all the best things about them. But what if it rained when I was a beach bum? Or if my race horse were a real dud? And how frustrating it must be when a surgeon has a patient he just can't help!"

"One day, I'll probably play all of these parts—as an actor. Or sing about them, as a singer! But for now, I'll concentrate on the good days I have instead of the occasional bad days. And, concentrate on you, because you're the one I'm here for!"
