

He stands there defiantly, cool as a cucumber, taking his time. A hush falls on the crowd with the sheer tension of the game.

Five minutes later he still hasn't moved. Why didn't someone warn him the other side were playing Goliath, the seven-foot giant?

