

Larry was talking in his spacious president's office at Bell Records not too many blocks from the Brill Building. The walls were festooned with shining gold albums, many of them won by the Partridge Family and David Cassidy. "They've sold eight million albums since they started," Larry told us, "and they're still going strong. The whole group add David are wonderful to work with."