

The Dorchester Hotel sighed with relief during David Cassidy's recent visit to London. The London River police inherited all the security problems the hotel had last January during a previous visit of Cassidy. At that time thousands of kids overran the staid lobby of the Dorchester looking for David. This last time David rented a yacht and stayed on the Thames.