

DAVID CASSIDY

No rush for Cassidy's pop show

By DEBORAH THOMAS

WEENYBOPPER pop fans stayed away yesterday when tickets for David Cassidy's London concert went on sale.

Only 500 out of 40,000 were sold in three hours after the booking office opened for the concert—at the White City Stadium on May 26.

Bookings

The staff had expected overnight queues — and possibly even riots.

But the demand was so small that the staff closed the booking office at 1 p.m., and went home.

Dick Leahy, managing director of Bell Records, David's recording company, said last night: "I'm sure David will be a sell-out."

"We have been taking postal bookings for two weeks because we didn't want any trouble with children queuing in the cold."
