"I HAD NO control over the monster I had become in my own country," said David Cassidy at a press conference in London. Referring to the antics of the teeny-boppers at his concerts, "I couldn't help what happened. I don't mind being criticized for something I'm honestly responsible for, but the image created over the past five years was just not me. I'd like to start fresh with your help."