

Girl fan knocks out singing star David

By KAREN DANIEL

SINGER David Cassidy was knocked unconscious by one of his adoring girl fans at the weekend.

She got on stage, threw herself at him and sent him flying during his final song at the Apollo Theatre in Oxford.

His spokesman, Tony Brainsby, said: "Somehow the girl managed to slip through the heavy security cordon on stage and grabbed David around the neck from behind.

"David fell to the floor and banged his head.

DAVID: Groggy

"He came around quickly but is still feeling groggy."

David was nursing a sore head yesterday and hoping tonight's concert at London's Royal Albert Hall goes smoothly.