

Ex-Partridge David Cassidy has a different perspective

David Cassidy, the singing heartthrob of TV's The Partridge Family two decades ago, is back on the road performing such tunes as his 1970 hit I Think I Love You. But the 41-year-old singer says he's no rock dinosaur on the nostalgia circuit. "I sing a lot of those songs now from a different perspective," Cassidy said. "I have a sense of humor about having such an impact on a whole generation of people. And I never ended up being a tragic figure."