

A zoo for the Monkees

Step aside, Rock and Roll Hall of Fame: Here comes an angry ex-Monkee.

Frustrated with waiting for election into the Hall, Davy Jones will open his own museum in Beaverton, Pa.

Jones, who made his mark in the 1960s with hits like Last Train to Clarksville and Daydream Believer, tells TV Guide that he'll open his Davy Jones Rock and Roll Museum this September in a former Lutheran church in the region he now calls home.

Featured bands, he says, will include the Monkees, KC and the Sunshine Band and other chart-toppers who have been shunned by the Cleveland rock hall.

"I can't believe the Monkees are not in the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame," Jones says. "That is a joke. We were the forerunners from the '60s."

Meanwhile, the ageless singer says he'd like to tour with Sheena Easton, who's currently stagnating with David Cassidy in Las Vegas.

"You've got David Cassidy and Sheena Easton dying there because he has no soul," Jones says of the ex-Partridge Family star. "He's just a name. He couldn't sell a ticket."
