
JENNIFER Saunders admits to a teenage passion for warbler David Cassidy, even putting up a jumbo poster on her bedroom wall. 'Jackie magazine would do these posters where one week you'd get the middle of David Cassidy, then the next week his head, then his leg,' she recalls. 'You'd gradually build your David Cassidy from dismembered bits.' Puts a new meaning on Cassidy's song Breaking Up Is Hard to Do.
